COLIBRI

COLIBRI - A CONTEMPORARY CLASSIC

Oak that is both flexible and solid. Wood as much for the eye as for the feeling. In Markus Johansson's latest collection for Hans K both qualities unite in a sober contemporary classic which dares to be unconstrained contemporary. But the Colibri is more than a substantial and straightforward chair; it invites you to a generous seating comfort with well thought out details.

To the light chairs with their rounded shapes there should be an equally stripped down table. The feeling of wood is as present regardless if you choose legs and frame in solid oilad oak or blonde. The tabletop is practical and is wear-resistant in linoleum.

COMBINE YOUR OWN CHAIR

All chairs do not have to be the same. They can have as different expressions as within a family. Why not combine a back in blonde oak with a seat in fabric on a white lacquered base?

Or the opposite - a seat in bonded leather? The Colibri can be designed based on your own taste; all you have to do is combine your own favourite chair. Choose the back part with or without arm support. The base and the back are available in different colours like oiled oak or blonde, white lacquered birch or black stained elm. The fabric chair seats come in plum, light grey and sparkling grey. Or why not embossed bonded leather in black?

OUR IDEA AND YOUR CREATIVITY BECOMES A CHAIR FOR YOU

Markus Johansson prefers wood in addition to most other materials. There is something in the strength and lightness which urges his design mind. Colibri is the dream of a gentle and light chair which offers the best seating comfort in an airy and open solid chair.

Not many years ago Markus graduated at HDK, the university for design and handicraft in Gothenburg. Although he is anything but a newcomer to the designing world, he is practically born and raised within the furniture business. Within a short period of time he has had furniture exhibited at tradeshows in both Stockholm and Milan with designing projects which have received a lot of attention and been in contact with productions outside Sweden. For Hans K he has created Verona, ZigZag, Rainbow and now Colibri.

- I started working during the summers in my family's furniture factory in Hyssna, Sweden when I was only twelve, and as time went by I learned how to programme CNC-mills and draw with CAD-technique. It is a big advantage knowing how all the processes work; it makes nothing impossible for me as a designer, I can always find new ways to accomplish my project ideas.

The Colibri is inspired by the fifties and sixties furniture design, but goes beyond that through a clean style and without any unnecessary details. The fact that the back part is exchangeable gives it an extra touch. But the most important thing is the seating comfort.

- The shape goes hand in hand with the function through the seat that has been milled down in the bottom part. It is important to find the right radius for the back, and at the same time making the chair wide and generous enough to suit everyone. I do not think you can find a better seating comfort.

The table top comes in Linoleum. The linoleum is a soft and natural material with a matte wear-resistant surface. Linoleum is mostly made out of natural materials such as linseed oil, rosin, wood flour, limestone and jute.
